

University Appeals Panel

The University Appeals Panel was established to consider appeals of negative decisions on faculty reappointments and promotions. Each college or school elects five tenured faculty members or 5 percent of its tenured faculty, whichever number is greater, to the panel. In addition, the president of the university appoints ten tenured faculty members to the panel. The five-year terms are staggered. Members are drawn from the University Appeals Panel to form the appeal committees that hear individual cases. (See also sections 2.2 on Reappointment, 2.3 on Tenure, and 2.4 on Promotion.)
