

Inventions and Related Property Rights

Cornell University requires inventors to assign to the university or its designee all rights and titles of their inventions and related property rights and result from activity conducted in the course of an appointment with the university and/or using university resources, including those provided through an externally funded grant, contract, or other type of award or gift to the university. This policy, https://www.dfa.cornell.edu/sites/default/files/policy/vol1_5.pdf, describes the process by which fair and equitable distribution of royalties to the inventor and the University is achieved.
