Announcements
We need to understand more fully what opening-without-vaccine might mean for vulnerable faculty and staff.

• What are the hidden pressures that might compel a person to come in to campus despite unacceptable levels of personal risk?
• What defines “unacceptable risk”?
• What about a non-vulnerable individual who lives with a vulnerable individual?
• Should accommodations be available for the asking or does there need to be some kind of approval process?

The Tenure Pause Resolution

Final Discussion

Charles Van Loan
If the pause point is at the college level, then the department will have to revisit the case with the dossier augmented with the misconduct summary. “Revisit” does not necessarily mean “start from scratch.” E.g., probably no need to re-assess the external letters.

Rationale for restarting: evaluators at the department, college, and university levels must “see” the same dossier.
The review resumes at the pause point.

Reference to the allegations is not allowed UNLESS the candidate gives permission.

The candidate can augment the dossier with a statement about any aspect of the allegations.
1. Because the integrity of the tenure process is the combined responsibility of the department, college, and university, the decision to pause rests with the chair, dean, provost, and DoF and not the candidate.

2. The pause policy is about having a fair and careful interaction with existing misconduct procedures in the context of a tenure review. Improving those procedures is a separate (and very important) exercise.

3. Existing data contradicts the claim that tenure cases of women and minority faculty are more likely to be paused.
Implications of NOT Having a Pause Policy

1. Increases the chance that rumors will torque the tenure review, typically in a direction that is unfavorable to the candidate.

2. Increases the chance of antagonizing the tenured faculty voters by withholding information that is relevant to the case.

3. Increases the chance of inconsistency from case to case.
Accepted Two Suggestions from Senators

Time Limitation

If a resolution to the inquiry, investigation, or adjudicative process is not reached within 12 months of the initial pause date, the tenure review shall be resumed. The stipulation in section C.4 shall apply, giving the candidate the right to include in the dossier a statement.

Dossier Purging of Unproven Allegations

If the inquiry, investigation, or adjudicative process arises because of a document initially included in the tenure dossier (such as a student letter), and the candidate is found not responsible, then that document shall be excluded from the dossier when the tenure review is resumed.

Sense-of-the-Senate Resolution

On the Use of S20 Course Evaluations

Whereas,
   S20 is an unusual semester where all courses were converted to virtual instruction within three weeks as students returned home due to the pandemic;

Whereas,
   faculty had little control over technological (low band-width, poor equipment) or logistical (different time zones) difficulties that impacted course delivery adversely;

Whereas,
   Cornell adopted a student-centric grading policy where students were allowed to make a decision on whether they would take a course for grade or on a S/U basis after they saw their grade for the S20 semester;
Sense-of-the-Senate Resolution

On the Use of S20 Course Evaluations

Be it resolved that the Faculty Senate recommends that candidates for tenure, promotion, or contract renewal be given the option of having their S20 course evaluations removed from the dossier and replaced with a brief personal summary of the teaching experience.

- Very few “cap” clinical professor titles
- Clinical professor titles are the most common
- Lecturer titles are rarely used
- Exact comparisons difficult
