Faculty Senate Highlights

The Senate met nineteen times this year—a record.

August 5
The Anti-Racism Initiative was outlined. On issues regarding the F20 reopening, concerns were voiced over the new quarantine plan and its fairness across income levels. The messaging with respect to the announcement renewed concerns about students learning about policy modifications before the faculty. Professor Peter Frazier answered questions about the modeling effort and what the simulations are saying in light of the evolving pandemic.

August 26
The Provost gave an overview of the F20 reopening that touched on testing, enrollment, facilities, classes, and student life. Pat Wynn provided a positive snapshot of the move-in process. Students from DoBetterCornell led a discussion about components of the anti-racism initiative that require faculty action.

September 9
A unified Professor of the Practice policy for the S.C. Johnson College of Business was presented for Senate approval. Three proposed changes to the code of academic integrity were... presented with an eye towards providing feedback to the EPC. There was an update on the antiracism initiative. Current activity is centered on the formation of various ad hoc committees that will provide recommendations to the Senate.

September 30
Several items mentioned in the antiracism petition are already on the Senate's Fall Agenda including curriculum review, standardized tests, developing a Center proposal, and a Toni Morrison building renaming. The proposed charges for the three antiracism working groups was discussed. The charge for Working Group C (the Center) was edited as a result of the conversation. Relevant to the design of an antiracism-related educational requirement for faculty, Angela Winfield discussed a comparable program for staff, and Avery August and Yael Levitte discussed multiple programs offered through the Office of Faculty Development and Diversity and provided data that renders an overall perspective on how we are doing.

October 14
A presentation entitled “Indigenous and Decolonizing Perspectives on Social Justice” was given by faculty from the American Indian and Indigenous Studies Program. The Educational Policy Committee is recommending three changes to the Code of Academic Integrity. If this resolution is approved then (a) a staff member could serve as an independent witness at a primary hearing, (2) in large cases the instructor can delegate the running of a particular primary hearing to a faculty colleague provided the hearing is recorded, and (3) switching the grade option for S/U to LET becomes an option in situations when an S/U student is found guilty of a Code violation. Important to post comments and concerns here. President Pollack was in attendance and thanked the faculty for their ongoing and heroic teaching efforts. She also gave an update on a number of important issues that face the university.

October 28
The Senate will vote at its next meeting on a proposed recommendation to the North Campus Building Naming Committee that one of the new residences be named after Nobel Laureate Barbara McClintock (B.S., ’23, M.S. ’25, PhD ’27). A detailed protocol whereby a college can modify its RTE faculty cap limitation percentage was presented. Prompted by its clinical faculty needs, the College of Veterinary Medicine presented a proposal that would modify its RTE percent limitation. There was a presentation about the positioning of breaks for the upcoming S21 semester. By a five-to-one margin most senators favor having 2 or more break days with the centroid of opinion being that they come as two one-day breaks.

November 11
Provost Kotlikoff gave a budget update. Jon Burdick (Vice Provost for Enrollments) set the stage for subsequent Senate discussion on the role of standardized tests in freshman admissions. Associate Vice President Laura Rugless and Professor Risa Lieberwitz gave an update on the stakeholder review of Policy 6.4 (Harassment, Bias, and Sexual Misconduct.)

December 2
Now active is a 2-month project whose goal is to develop a response protocol for when a faculty member is the target of a threatening communication. Overview. General Counsel Madelyn Wessel gave a detailed overview of the close-to-finalized Student Code of Conduct. Details and opportunity to comment. Risa Lieberwitz discussed a planned revision of the Faculty Handbook’s statement on academic freedom.
December 16

In a pair of Sense-of-the-Senate votes, the Department of English name change to ‘Literatures in English’ was approved (Y=55, N =3, Abs = 11) as was the Freshman Admissions Advisory motion (Y = 61 ,N = 1, Abs = 1). An update on the Anti-Racism Initiative was given with an eye towards receiving feedback before the WG-F Draft Report and the WG-S Draft Report are finalized in early February.

January 20

Part of the Senate’s Academics On(The)Line discussion thread being staged this semester involves getting a handle on all the podcasts that are hosted or co-hosted by a Cornell faculty member or academic unit. The Senate approved this resolution thereby expressing support for this revised University statement on academic freedom and freedom of speech and expression. (Yes = 83, No = 0, Abstain = 2). There was a presentation of the draft report from the Working Group that is proposing the creation of an Antiracism Center.

February 10

The Senate approved the formation of a faculty Admissions Advisory Group. A proposed dual degree program between the School of Hotel Administration and the Guanghua School of Management at Peking University was presented by Professor Alex Susskind. A proposed major revision of Policy 1.2 that is concerned with research misconduct was presented by Chief Research Compliance Officer Dr. Mark Hurwitz.

February 24

A resolution on crime alerts and race was presented. Read more and post comments here. There was this update from the Ad hoc Committee that is looking into the development of response protocols for when a faculty member is the target of a threatening communication. Draft resource docs for faculty and unit heads were shared. Professor Peter Frazier discussed the current work of Cornell’s covid-19 modeling team referencing this detailed report on S21.

March 10

Following this brief introduction that previewed the agenda, four faculty colleagues offered four frameworks for thinking about international dual degree programs (IDDPs):

March 17

Vice Provost for International Affairs Wendy Wolford gave this presentation on Cornell University and International Collaborations. “Next steps” regarding international dual degree programs and related issues will be relayed later this week. WG-C’s final report to the Senate on a Center for Antiracist, Just, and Equitable Futures was discussed.

March 31

A Sense-of-the-Senate vote was staged regarding the SHA Proposal for a dual degree program with the Guanghua School of Management at Peking University. Should the program be approved? Senate Vote: Yes = 16, No = 39, Abstain = 20, DNV = 51.

A Possible IDDP Approval Process from the UFC was presented. Next step is to collect feedback and collaborate with the Office of the Vice Provost for International Affairs to develop a specific recommendation. Probable action within a month.
April 14
There was a presentation of the Antiracism Initiative final Working Group Reports. There was a Q&A with DoF Candidates Eve DeRosa and Risa Lieberwitz. Candidate Profiles

April 21
The resolutions associated with the three antiracism initiative working groups reports have been reframed. Background and Details. There was a summary of concerns that have been voiced about the three WG reports and statistics were presented that shed light on the scope of the problem we are trying to solve.
