Interested in Becoming a Naval Nuclear Officer?

Representatives from the Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program will be on hand to answer your questions in a targeted discussion with information for both Cornell students and faculty advisors. United States Naval Nuclear Power officers are respected around the globe as experts within their fields. Learn how your Cornell degree, your willingness to serve, and your dedication can combine to assist you in joining their ranks!

Cornell Engineering and Physics
Faculty & Student Information Session

October 8th, 2019, 6:00 to 7:00 p.m.
Upson Hall, Room 222
Light Refreshments will be provided!

Scholarship and Commissioning Opportunities still available for 3rd & 4th year students! All grade levels welcome!

Come to the information session for further information on these exciting career fields:
- Fleet (Submarine and Surface Warfare) Nuclear Officers
- Instructor (Nuclear Power School and Nuclear Training Unit)
- Engineer (Naval Reactors Headquarters and Research Facility)

Hosted by Cornell Naval ROTC  navy.cornell.edu
NUPOC Opportunity: https://www.navy.com/joining/college-options/nupoc