JOBS, OPPORTUNITIES & RESOURCES

FHI 360's Gender Equality and Social Inclusion (GESI) team presents this event in recognition of the 16 Days of Activism. A key goal is to provide increases in gender-based violence against Women, and runs until 10 December, Human Rights Day.

The First Political Order: How Sex Shapes the Order—The Sexual Political Order. Donna Lee Bowen, and Perpetua Lynne Nielsen, followed by a discussion with presentation of the book, "The First Political Order: How Sex Shapes the World Order." Join the Wilson Center's Environmental Change and Security Program for a discussion. This event will include American Sign Language interpretation, closed captioning, language accessibility to both speakers and virtual participants, including offering background translators.

PeaceCon 2020 will convene global leaders and practitioners to host virtual events on key topics in global peace and security. This year, PeaceCon will also consider strategies to elevate and integrate Women, Peace, and Security (WPS) in the policy and practice of promoting and achieving gender equality globally.

Increase awareness of the WPS agenda among the wider DC community, including the US government, embassies, non-profits, and civil society by hosting events that attract a great deal of attention and support the goals of the WPS agenda. Establishing meaningful coalitions between professionals and DC institutions in support of the campaign bringing together experts from around the world to weigh in on how to secure a better, more prosperous future in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. Conformed speakers include the McCain Institute's Women in Politics and Security, and the Global Women's Institute's Women, Peace, and Security Student Consortium.

ILO Convention 190 and to end all forms of GBV in private and public spaces. A key goal is to provide increases in gender-based violence against Women, and runs until 10 December, Human Rights Day.

Grace Meng McCain Institute's Women and Work: The Policy and Practice of Gender Equality Initiative in International Affairs. She is currently a Senior Fellow at the McCain Institute for International Leadership, where she focuses on strategies to promote gender equality and women's empowerment. Prior to joining the McCain Institute, Grace served as a Policy Manager at the United Nations Foundation, where she led the Women, Peace, and Security portfolio. She also served as the Deputy Director of the Global Equality Initiative, a program of the United Nations Foundation that works to promote gender equality and women's empowerment. Grace has extensive experience in both public and private sector, including as a consultant for the United Nations and as a Senior Analyst at the Center For Strategic and International Studies.

Ariani is excited to join the GEIA team, contribute to its mission and values, and advance the Global Women's Institute's efforts to amplify the voices of women and girls around the world. She is currently pursuing an M.A. in Gender, Policy and Advocacy at American University, where she focuses on gender and public health. Ariani, being both Mozambican and Dutch, has worked for the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Mozambique within their Civil Society, Gender, and Social Inclusion Department. She has also engaged in human rights advocacy and activism, and has worked with several organizations, including Save the Children and the Women's Action for New Directions (WAND).

Women's Action for New Directions (WAND) - Director of the Women, Peace, and Security Student Consortium.

Global Women's Institute (GWI) at the George Washington University, Register Here and we'll feature you in an upcoming edition of the GEIA Bulletin. If you are interested in working towards raising awareness of the possibility of a gender superpower under the incoming Biden administration. Promote awareness as they work to shift towards the United States becoming a gender superpower under the incoming Biden administration. Under the leadership of Dr. Shirley Graham, Elliott School students are connecting GWI to their policy and practice of promoting and achieving gender equality globally.

We want to celebrate your achievement! Send a photo and short description of your new role to geia@gwu.edu and we'll feature you in an upcoming edition of the GEIA Bulletin.

Ariani is excited to join the GEIA team, contribute to its mission and values, and advance the Global Women's Institute's efforts to amplify the voices of women and girls around the world. She is currently pursuing an M.A. in Gender, Policy and Advocacy at American University, where she focuses on gender and public health. Ariani, being both Mozambican and Dutch, has worked for the Embassy of the Kingdom of the Netherlands in Mozambique within their Civil Society, Gender, and Social Inclusion Department. She has also engaged in human rights advocacy and activism, and has worked with several organizations, including Save the Children and the Women's Action for New Directions (WAND).

GEIA BULLETIN 11.30.2020