Article 38(1), Statute of the International Court of Justice

“The Court, whose function is to decide in accordance with international law such disputes as are submitted to it, shall apply:

a. international conventions, whether general or particular, establishing rules expressly recognized by the contesting states;

b. international custom, as evidence of a general practice accepted as law;

c. the general principles of law recognized by civilized nations;

d. subject to the provisions of Article 59, judicial decisions and the teachings of the most highly qualified publicists of the various nations, as subsidiary means for the determination of rules of law.”
1978 Vienna Convention on Succession of States in Respect of Treaties

Not applicable as a whole (applicable in part)
LEGAL FOUNDATION – Customary International Law

“those rules of international law that derive from and reflect a general practice accepted as law”

(Second Report on Identification of CIL, ILC)

Two Elements:

- General practice (objective element)
- Acceptance as law – opinio juris (subjective element)
LEGAL FOUNDATION – Customary International Law

- Two Elements:
  - General practice (objective element) - What
    - Attributable to a State
    - Consistency
    - Time
  - Acceptance as law (subjective element) – Why?
LEGAL FOUNDATION – Customary International Law

Two Elements:

- General practice (objective element) - What

- Acceptance as law (subjective element) – Why?

  - “A belief that the practice is permitted or required as a matter of legal right or obligation”

    (Hall, Principles of International Law, 2016)

- Not practice out of “courtesy, good-neighborliness, political expedience...convenience or tradition”
LEGAL FOUNDATION – Customary International Law

- Customary Rules for All Types of State Succession
  - Border Treaties
  - Localized Treaties
  - Political Treaties

- State Practice for Succession by Unification
  - Merger of States
  - Incorporation
“The weight of the evidence of State practice and of legal opinion in favour of the view that in principle a boundary settlement is unaffected by the occurrence of a succession of States is strong and powerfully reinforced by the decision of the United Nations Conference on the Law of Treaties to except from the fundamental change of circumstances rule a treaty which establishes a boundary”

ILC Commentary on Succession of States in Respect of Treaties (1974)
BORDER TREATIES

“A succession of States does not as such affect:
(a) A boundary established by a treaty; or
(b) Obligations and rights established by a treaty and relating to the regime of a boundary”

Art. 11, Vienna Convention on Succession of States in respect of Treaties (1978)
OTHER DISPOSITIVE TREATIES (LOCALIZED TREATIES)

- Dealing with treaties based on the territory of a State or treaties creating purely local obligations
- Treaties relating to transport, fisheries, and hunting (¶5)
- Treaties providing for freedom of navigation in particular international rivers or waterways (¶11)
- Treaties concerning water rights or navigation on rivers (¶36)

Waldock, Fifth Report on Succession in Respect of Treaties (1972)
OTHER DISPOSITIVE TREATIES (LOCALIZED TREATIES)

A succession of States does not as such affect:
(a) obligations relating to the use of any territory, or to restrictions upon its use, established by a treaty for the benefit of any territory of a foreign State and considered as attaching to the territories in question;
(b) rights established by a treaty for the benefit of any territory and relating to the use, or to restrictions upon the use, of any territory of a foreign State and considered as attaching to the territories in question.

Art. 12(1), 1978 VCSST
“The Court considers that Article 12 [of the 1978 Vienna Convention on Succession of States in Respect of Treaties] reflects a rule of customary international law; it notes that neither of the parties disputed this.”

ICJ, Gabčíkovo-Nagymaros Project (1997)
POLITICAL TREATIES

“Alliances and treaties of friendship, treaties forming a political union and treaties establishing a system of economic integration are such embodiments of genuine political treaties...any treaty which is indissolubly linked to the particular political structure of a state, bound to its peculiar political and economic order.”

Oeter, German Unification and State Succession (1991)
“No succession takes place with regard to rights and duties of the extinct state arising from its purely political treaties. Thus treaties of alliance or of arbitration or of neutrality or of any other political nature fall to the ground with the extinction of the state which concluded them...as regards treaties of commerce, extradition and the like made by the extinct state, it is controversial whether they remain valid...because such treaties, although they are non-political in a sense, possess some prominent political features.”

Jennings & Watts, Oppenheim's International Law (2008)
LEGAL FOUNDATION – Customary International Law

- Customary Rules for All Types of State Succession
- State Practice for Succession by Unification
  - Merger of States
  - Incorporation
MERGER OF STATES

- For cases of mergers, CIL already exists.
- Rule: The pre-existing treaties of the predecessor State (1) continue in force within their respective territories and (2) may be terminated by a later treaty entered by the successor State.
- Evidenced by state practice: United Arab Republic (1958) and United Republic of Tanzania (1964)
MERGER OF STATES – State Practice

- Part 1: Continue Pre-existing treaty Relations within Respective Regions
  - Constant and uniform practice
    - UAR – Article 69 of its Provisional Constitution – “provided for the continuance in force of all the pre-union treaties of both Egypt and Syria within the limits of the particular region”
    - Tanzania – Note to the UN Secretary General “all international treaties and agreements in force…remain in force within the regional limits”
  - Opinio Juris
    - Evidence through the declarations made by the federations and unions
MERGER OF STATES – State Practice

Part 2: Pre-Existing Treaties may be Superseded with a Later Treaty

Constant and uniform practice

- UAR – Syria had bilateral trade agreements with third States (China, Czechoslovakia, GDR, Hungary); Egypt had bilateral trade agreements with third States (China, Czechoslovakia, GDR, Greece, the US, USSR, and Hungary) – superseded by new trade agreements between the UAR and the third States

- Tanzania – bilateral agreements continued in force, unless incompatible with the “constitutional position” of the United Republic

Opinio Juris

- Evidenced by the treaties themselves

- Article 59 of the VCLT – “A treaty shall be considered as terminated if all the parties to it conclude a later treaty relating to the same subject-matter…”
INCORPORATION

- No CIL yet existing
- Only by state practice – Germany and Vietnam (those States that unified through “incorporation”)
- Do these practices meet the elements of CIL?
WHY ONLY GERMANY?

Methodology

1. DPRK bilateral treaties
2. Previous unified States’ bilateral treaties
3. Match treaties by subject-matter
4. Eliminate treaties not applicable

GERMANY – THE UNIFICATION TREATY

Article 11 - TREATIES OF THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF GERMANY

The Contracting Parties proceed on the understanding that international treaties and agreements to which the Federal Republic of Germany is a contracting party, including treaties establishing membership of international organizations or institutions, shall retain their validity and that the rights and obligations arising therefrom, with the exception of the treaties named in Annex I, shall also relate to the territory specified in Article 3 of this Treaty. Where adjustments become necessary in individual cases, the all-German Government shall consult with the respective contracting parties.
Article 12(1) - TREATIES OF THE GERMAN DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC

The Contracting Parties are agreed that, in connection with the establishment of German unity, international treaties of the German Democratic Republic shall be discussed with the contracting parties concerned with a view to regulating or confirming their continued application, adjustment or expiry, taking into account protection of confidence, the interests of the states concerned, the treaty obligations of the Federal Republic of Germany as well as the principles of a free, democratic basic order governed by the rule of law, and respecting the competence of the European Communities.
Germany – Trade Agreements

- Ceased to continue in force
- Reasons:
  - (1) Both FRG and third States are members of GATT
  - (2) FRG – member of the EEC
- Same subject-matter treaties
Germany – Avoidance of Double Taxation & Prevention of Fiscal Activities Agreements

- Ceased to continue in force
- Same subject matter
Rules Derived

- From CIL
  - No treaty succession for political treaties
  - Automatic treaty succession for border and localized treaties
  - With merger of States – pre-existing treaties continue in force within their respective territories unless superseded by a later treaty
Rules Derived

- From Germany state practice - model
  - Successor State’s treaties continue in force, extending to the territory of the predecessor State
  - Predecessor State’s treaties, except for those already determined by CIL, are subject to consultations and negotiations by the Contracting parties
Definition: “Principles of law that are common to the major legal systems of the world”

(Hall, Principles of International Law, 2016)

“gap-filling” role
\textbf{PACTA SUNT SERVANDA}

\begin{itemize}
\item “Agreements must be kept”
\item \textbf{Article 26 of the VCLT}
  \begin{itemize}
  \item “every treaty \textit{in force} is binding upon the parties to it and must be performed by them in \textit{good faith}”
  \end{itemize}
\item \textbf{In Force}
  \begin{itemize}
  \item Deals with treaties that are in force + those treaties that have been signed, but yet ratified
  \end{itemize}
\item \textbf{Good Faith}
  \begin{itemize}
  \item Contracting Parties “must comply with the obligations and responsibility agreed upon”
  \end{itemize}
\end{itemize}
“Things thus standing”

Article 62 of the VCLT

A fundamental change of circumstances which has occurred...may not be invoked as a ground for termination or withdrawal unless:

1. the existence of those circumstances constituted an essential basis of the consent of the parties to be bound by the treaty
2. the effect of the change is radically to transform the extent of obligations still to be performed under the treaty
Pact Tertiis

- “Agreements (do not harm) third parties”
- Article 34 of the VCLT
  - “A treaty does not create either obligations or rights for a third State without its consent”
- With treaties regarding rights or obligations of third States, the third States’ consent are required

Application to a Unified Korea

- Border Treaties
- Political Treaties
- Bilateral Treaties – China BITs (Example)
Border Treaties

- All border treaties, the 1962 Sino-DPRK border treaty and the 1985 Russia-DPRK border treaty, continue in force.
- Whether these treaties are valid is a different question – dealing with the validity of the treaty from when it first entered into force and regarding the history of the treaty-making.
Political Treaties

- All political treaties cease to exist, such as Treaty on Friendship and Co-operation with:
  - Mongolia (1986)
  - Romania (1975)

| Right to submit investment dispute to an international arbitration, ICSID, under the Convention on the Settlement of Disputes between States and Nationals of Other States | No right to submit investment dispute to an international tribunal – only ad hoc arbitral tribunal |
Conclusion – Effect on Third Party’s Rights

- Under CIL
  - Rights under border treaties and localized treaties – remain unaffected
  - Rights under political treaties – extinguish upon succession
- Under general principles of law,
  - Assurance of good faith by a Unified Korea – no unilateral decision
  - Unification itself cannot be legal basis for termination or withdrawal
  - A unification treaty cannot create any obligations or rights of third States
- Entitled the right to consultation and negotiation with a Unified Korea regarding its pre-existing treaties
