Endowment Market Value 1989 - 2010
($ in Billions)

Fiscal Years ended June 30
Applications for fall 2011: 13,795
Financial update: Budget

• The budget is very tight, but:
  - No across-the-board reduction in A1 budgets
  - Modest pay raise pool
  - No increase in Rec Center fees
  - Maintain need-blind admission and scholarship policies

• Some likely fee increases:
  - Medical and dental insurance
  - Parking rates

• Challenges:
  - State and federal budget cuts may impact financial aid and grants
  - Find new efficiencies and revenue sources

Facilities update

Transformational $800 million construction program nearly complete:

• Wilson House completed
• Brockman Hall for Physics grand opening
• Turrell Skyspace groundbreaking

Future plans, when funds are raised:

• Continuing Studies, Social Sciences, opera theater, football facility
Grand opening - March 24, 2011
Suzanne Deal Booth Pavilion
James Turrell Skyspace
March 29: Construction begins
May 17: Celebration
Discussions under way across campus:

- Bioscience and health
- Energy and the environment
- International strategy
Why be international?

- Global higher education marketplace
  - Recruit the best faculty and students
    - 22 percent faculty foreign citizens
    - 34 percent graduate students from abroad
    - 11 percent recent freshmen from abroad

- Create global research collaborations
  - Research global and common issues

- Give Rice students an international experience on campus and through study abroad

- Expand influence and visibility through global alumni population

- Build a global reputation
  - Times Higher Education: from 100th to 47th in 2010
International initiatives

• International scholars and students
  - ~600 international scholars and researchers at Rice
  - One-fifth of overall Rice student population

• Research collaborations: BIPP
  - China, Singapore, Japan, Latin America

• Global health: Rice 360

• International centers: Chao Center

• Study abroad: New programs in Argentina and India; opportunities in Brazil and Turkey
Collaboration with the Texas Medical Center

- Biohealth initiative
- BRC strategy
- Baylor College of Medicine
  - Research
  - Joint appointments
  - Undergrad education
Collaboration with the Texas Medical Center

- John McDevitt’s Bio-Nano-Chips are in six major clinical trials - one for cardiac disease with the VA and BCM

- Jennifer West and colleagues at BCM and Texas Children's showed that nanoshells may be effective for the treatment of glioma, a deadly brain cancer.

- Sociology and humanities undergraduates participated in 10 research projects through a collaboration between Rice's Baruch Brody and colleagues at BCM and the VA.

- Marcia O'Malley is working with BCM to use robotics in stroke rehabilitation and with a team at TIRR/Memorial Herman to improve therapy for spinal cord injuries.

- Yousif Shamoo is working with the UT Health Science Center to investigate the evolution of bacteria that have become resistant even to antibiotics of "last resort."
• Matteo Pasquali is working with surgeons at the Texas Heart Institute to develop a new "pulseless" artificial heart.

• Edward Knightly is working with Methodist researchers to create and test wireless devices so doctors can remotely monitor the health of homebound patients.

• Rebekah Drezek is working with UH pharmaceutical experts to find new ways to use nanoparticles to minimize the side effects of chemotherapy drugs.

• Lon Wilson is working with surgeons at the Texas Heart Institute to use magnetic nanoparticles to both evaluate and enhance stem-cell treatments.

• Lisa Biswal is teaming with BCM and UH to use magnetic particles to track down metastatic cancer cells.
Collaboration with the Texas Medical Center

• Steven Cox, Rich Baraniuk and Rob Raphael are teaming with BCM neuroscientists to tackle engineering problems with connecting man-made devices to living neural systems.

• Naomi Halas is partnering with MD Anderson oncologists and BCM radiologists to develop "theranostic" nanoparticles that diagnose and treat pancreatic cancer.

• Christy Landes is conducting basic research on neurotransmitters with the UTHSC to better understand the processes of learning and memory.

• Laura Segatori is collaborating with UT researchers to investigate and enhance the activity of mechanisms that are known to play a role in Parkinson’s and Alzheimer’s disease.

RICE = Leadership
Respect
“The most refreshing thing about being at Rice is the friendliness of the people. They want to understand the world and really value people from other nations.”

Suman Khatiwada from Nepal, pursuing a doctorate in materials science.
Integrity
“Tom was never a taker. He never asked anything of others, except perhaps just the chance to continue doing his best at what he believed in. Tom was, to my mind, one of those few individuals whose dream in life was to enable the dreams of others.”

Art Gottschalk
