

Milton-Freewater Downtown Alliance

Community Profile

County Umatilla

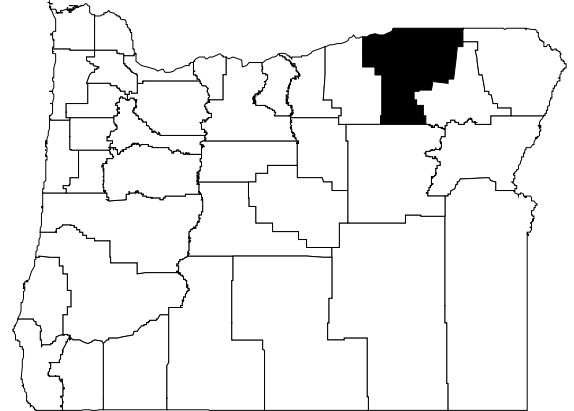

City Milton-Freewater

Population 6,740

Description

Sponsor Milton-Freewater Downtown Alliance

Supervisor Norm Saager

Assignment Milton-Freewater Downtown Alliance (MFDA) is a newly created organization under the umbrella of the Community Development Partnership, a group built of community members who are from service organizations, clubs, and business and property owners or city officials. Recently, MFDA joined the Oregon Main Street Program. Five months after creating MFDA, the organization accomplished the administrative tasks necessary to move forward with their established goals & objectives. Specifically, MFDA formed an executive board, assigned committees, compiled by-laws, obtained financial and in-kind resources for the hiring of a RARE participant, and garnered the support of the City of Milton-Freewater, Milton-Freewater Area Chamber of Commerce, Community Development Partnership, The Milton-Freewater Area Foundation and the N. Main Street Merchants & Property Owners.

The RARE participant placed with Milton-Freewater Downtown Alliance will work as the organization's Main Street Program Manager. Specifically, the participant will conduct research needed to identify available commercial space in the business district. The participant will also take the lead on moving forward the City's newly developed Main Street Program via an array of advocacy and outreach efforts.

Meet Alina Launchbaugh

Alina received her Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Kansas State University and a Bachelor of Science in Biblical Studies/Theology from Manhattan Christian College. As a student, the main focus of her studies was new venture creation and marketing. After graduating from college, Alina lived and worked in Nyeri, Kenya as a Youth Enterprise Volunteer. In Kenya, Alina assisted youth at the Children and Youth Empowerment Center in business plan writing and development. Following Alina's second year with the RARE Program, she plans to attend law school.