Assignment The RARE participant is working with the Port of Cascade Locks on a number of projects to diversify the economic base. Much of the work is centered around the improvement of the marine park specifically; the participant is coordinating the redesign of the entrance and researching opportunities to expand the beach area.

Additionally, the participant is managing a number of projects that focus on land use such as tracking a wilderness land exchange to increase developable property within the port. Additionally, the participant is leading the process of consolidating and marketing existing commercial property. Finally, the participant is working with the International Mountain Bike Association to develop a mountain biking trail that will hopefully increase tourism to the area.

RARE Participant

Anna Tompkins

Anna Tompkins is entering her second year of the RARE program and the Port of Cascade Locks. Anna graduated from California State University- Fresno with a BS in Geography.
