Jennifer Espinola

Leadership Presentation

Jennifer Espinola has spent 20 years in higher education with a primary focus on leadership development. She directed the Center for Leadership and Civic Engagement at the University of South Florida and also Co-Directed Leadership Studies at USF for over 10 years. At Oregon Law, Jennifer directs the Frohnmayer Leadership Program, and teaches a course called "Leadership Practices for Professional Success." She is also on the planning team for the new UO Leadership Academy for OAs and faculty, launching in Fall 2018.

Jennifer has presented leadership programs to over 40 universities and higher education organizations, and she currently serves as a lead facilitator for the LeaderShape organization.