

Geography 142: Our Globalized World

Fulfills Social Science Group and International Cultures Requirement

Why should you take this class?

Human Geography makes you ask yourself about the why and how of where. Why does this matter? This course compels you to think critically about the difference in cultures and political structures across the globe, and what influences formed these systems to be as they are today. It is important to understand why people are located where they are, as well as the problems humans face to gain access to resources such as food and clean water. Take this class if you want to have a better understanding of the human world around you!

Skills Gained:

- Communicate how and why humans move through places and spaces
- Observe spatial patterns
- Identify forces that shape a place

Take 142 if you are interested in:

- flow of people over time, place, and space
- world cultures
- world political systems
- dynamics of urbanization
