OFFERING FINANCIAL SUPPORT TO

Graduate students to serve as archivists in the Randall V. Mills Archives of Northwest Folklore—a repository of fieldwork collections and research materials on folklife in Oregon, the Pacific Northwest, and beyond.

Graduate students to work on public folklore projects for the Oregon Folklife Network—the state of Oregon’s designated Folk and Traditional Arts Program, which is based at the University of Oregon and works in partnership with the Oregon Arts Commission, Oregon Cultural Trust, and the Oregon Historical Society.

THE FOLKLORE AND PUBLIC CULTURE PROGRAM is one of a few major centers of folkloristic research in the United States. With more than thirty participating faculty, our program provides an interdisciplinary approach to a Master’s Degree, allowing students to create a focused course of study in their areas of interest.
