Description of course:

This course is an undergraduate and graduate level introduction to gender and international development. This field sits at the intersection of most of the social sciences, feminist studies, development studies, area studies... you get the picture. We will attempt to outline the intellectual history of a “field” of gender and development that seemingly crosses all boundaries. This is part of our challenge in understanding and managing this growing body of literature, and at the same time it is precisely this fundamental interdisciplinarity and boundary crossing that makes the field worth engaging. We will explore the major theoretical and empirical developments in the field since its “birth” in the early 1970’s, covering a range of contested topics that affect people in a variety of rural and urban areas including globalization, work, economic re-structuring, environment, environmental justice, resource rights, empowerment and grassroots organizing, and how these relate to questions of development in gendered ways.

Learning Objectives:

In this course, students will learn to:

1. Identify and apply advanced concepts and perspectives in relation to gender and development studies.
2. Identify and apply how gender is socially constructed, and how it interacts with and within other social constructs (race, class, sexuality, legal status, global privilege) and social systems to shape us all.
3. Identify and apply theoretical frameworks to understand dynamics of coloniality, postcoloniality, and settler-colonialism, and their relationship to systems of inequality and privilege.
4. Identify contemporary concerns related to gender and development, as well as strategies for resisting inequalities and creating social change.

Required Texts:

Visvanathan, Nalini (Co-ordinator), Lynn Duggan, Laurie Nisonoff, and Nan Wiegersma (eds.). 2011. The Women, Gender and Development Reader. London: Zed Books. Second edition.

Momsen, Janet. 2010. Gender and Development. New York: Routledge Press. Second edition.

The required books are available for sale at the UO Bookstore. There are a number of other required readings for the class that will either be available online or on the course Canvas site (noted as online or Canvas on the syllabus).

Accessing course materials:

There is a Canvas site available for this class at <https://canvas.uoregon.edu/> -- you will need your UO email and password to access the site. The syllabus, selected readings, and general information on the class will be posted there throughout the term. Please familiarize yourself with the site if you have not already and please let me know if you need help accessing it.

Please note that the reading list may change throughout the term. Any changes will be announced in class and you are responsible for changes in the material. Please check your UO registered email account regularly for any notices regarding the class.

Evaluation (Undergraduate)

Attendance in class is mandatory. Our class will be exponentially strengthened by the increased engagement of all participants – you, me, and our colleagues around us. It is your responsibility to attend class with the readings for the day completed, and ready to engage in discussion. Attendance and participation will be integral to success in this course, including attendance, engagement, and active participation in the classroom, and will count for 10% of your final grade. If you foresee challenges to fulfilling any of the requirements please speak to me as soon as possible.

There are two required exams – midterm and final – that will make up 50% of your grade (30% midterm, 20% final). There are no early or make-up exams so plan your schedules now. All students will also complete a substantial group research project on a “guided” topic of your choice that is due at the end of the term. It will include an evaluation of your individual research component as well as your role in the group work and group presentation. Group members will have the chance to participate in the evaluation of other members of the group as well as to provide a self-evaluation of their group participation. Groups will do an in-class presentation of their work during one of the last two days of class in week ten. Each member of the group should take an active, speaking part in the presentation. The research project is worth 25% and includes: 10% based on your collaborative group work and 15% based on your individual final essay (a 750 word, research-based opinion editorial or op-ed essay) based on your group project work. The presentation is worth 10% of your final grade. More details on all of these assignments will be discussed later in the course.

Attendance/Participation: 10%

Project Proposal: 5%

Midterm Exam: 30%

Final Project (group): 10%

Final Project Presentation (group): 10%

Final Project Essay (individual op-ed): 15%

Take Home Final Exam: 20%

No late assignments will be accepted in this course and all assignments are required. If you have special circumstances please contact the professor as soon as possible.

Graduate Students

Graduate students will complete all of the assignments except for the final exam (see revised evaluation below). In addition, graduate students will do extra readings and turn in a 15-20 page research paper at the end of the term or an alternative assignment in consultation with the professor. Each graduate student is encouraged to speak with me early in the term about expectations and their interests (preferably by the end of the second week of the term).

Attendance/Participation: 10%

Final Essay Proposal: 5%

Midterm exam: 20%

Final Project (group): 15%

Final Project Presentation (group): 10%

Final Essay/Paper: 40%

Technology and Classroom Conduct:

All electronic equipment should be turned off and put away during class time. Laptops may be used for taking notes and for class-related purposes. If I find that laptops are being used for non-class purposes during class, I will take away the privilege of using laptops in the classroom and those students wishing to use a laptop will have to get permission from the instructor on a case by case basis.

Readings and Class Schedule:

Please note this may change throughout the term and you are responsible for keeping up to date with these changes (whether you attend class or not).

Academic Honesty and Citing Sources

All work submitted in this course must be your own and produced exclusively for this course. The use of sources (ideas, quotations, paraphrases) must be properly acknowledged and documented when using someone else's ideas or words.

Why Cite Your Sources? (from UO Libraries)

1. Professional honesty and courtesy: writers have an obligation to indicate when they have used someone else's ideas or words.
2. Citing sources strengthens the authority of your work. It demonstrates that you have considered others' opinions and ideas in forming your own.
3. Accurate citations help others locate the materials you used in your research.
4. To avoid being accused of plagiarism.
5. To uphold the University of Oregon's Student Conduct and Community Standards.

For the consequences of academic dishonesty, refer to the Schedule of Classes published quarterly. Violations will be taken seriously and are noted on student disciplinary records. Additionally, the following specific requirements will be expected in this class: all assignments should include references and citations, if appropriate, and should preferably be presented in MLA, ASA or APA format. Please see the "Citation Guides and support..." resources on the library website. Students committing academic dishonesty will receive a grade of 'F' or 'No Pass' in this course and UO Dean of Students will be notified.

Prohibited Discrimination and Harassment Reporting

Any student who has experienced sexual assault, relationship violence, sex or gender-based bullying, stalking, and/or sexual harassment may seek resources and help at safe.uoregon.edu. To get help by phone, a student can also call either the UO's 24-hour hotline at 541-346-7244 [SAFE], or the non-confidential Title IX Coordinator at 541-346-8136. From the SAFE website, students may also connect to Callisto, a confidential, third-party reporting site that is not a part of the university.

Students experiencing any other form of prohibited discrimination or harassment can find information at respect.uoregon.edu or aaeo.uoregon.edu or contact the non-confidential AAEO office at 541-346-3123 or the Dean of Students Office at 541-346-3216 for help. As UO policy has different reporting requirements based on the nature of the reported harassment or discrimination, additional information about reporting requirements for discrimination or harassment unrelated to sexual assault, relationship violence, sex or gender based bullying, stalking, and/or sexual harassment is available at Discrimination & Harassment.

Specific details about confidentiality of information and reporting obligations of employees can be found at titleix.uoregon.edu.

Mandatory Reporting of Child Abuse

UO employees, including faculty, staff, and GEs, are mandatory reporters of child abuse. This statement is to advise you that your disclosure of information about child abuse to a UO employee may trigger the UO employee's duty to report that information to the designated authorities. Please refer to the following links for detailed information about mandatory reporting: Mandatory Reporting of Child Abuse and Neglect.

The instructor of this class, as a Designated Reporter, will direct students who disclose sexual harassment or sexual violence to resources that can help and has the responsibility to report the information shared with them to the university administration. The instructor of this class is required to report all other forms of prohibited discrimination or harassment to the university administration.
