This seminar will focus on current TallWood Design Institute research topics and projects that advance the development and application of mass timber.

Topics include: forest restoration and management; carbon storage; timber supply chains; mass timber manufacturing; product development and testing; seismic resilience; fire resistance; moisture management; healthy buildings; acoustics; panelized building applications; and furniture design.