MFA Program Requirements

The UO MFA Program prepares students for serious and engaged art practice. Challenged to devise methods of experimentation and a significant understanding of historical and contemporary contexts, students develop an informed, independent practice that is specific to their intentions and sensibilities. Working within and across the areas of sculpture, photography, digital arts, ceramics, drawing, fibers, metalsmithing, painting and printmaking, the curriculum combines the best of both disciplinary depth and interdisciplinary thinking.

- 3 year program (must have at least nine terms of full time enrollment, with a minimum of nine credits each term)
- Degree requirements: 90 credits (minimum 54 graduate credits)

Minimum Requirements

Supervised Teaching Credits - 2 cr in the first year, in consultation with DGS

3 terms Issues and Practices (every Fall) - 9 cr

5 terms ART 612 Graduate Critique Colloquium (Winter and Spring) - 15 cr

Writing for Artists (or other graduate level writing course) - 3 cr

2 terms graduate level Art History - 8 cr (1 must be contemporary)

1 term theory seminar (Such as ARTH 607 or ART 507 offered by the Department of Art; or other university theory course approved by DGS prior to taking the course) - 4 cr

6 terms Graduate Studio (completed in the first two years, offered every term) - 24 cr

18 credits Terminal Creative Project (taken during final year) - 18 cr

Terminal Creative Project Report

Terminal Creative Project Exhibition

Total Minimum Requirements - 81 cr, plus 9 additional elective credits to equal 90 credits

ARH courses must be graded to count towards the minimum requirement. Additional ARH courses taken as electives may be P/N or graded.
Additional UO Requirements

Course Registration Requirements and Limits
A graduate student may register for up to 16 credits of graduate or undergraduate course work. Registration in excess of this level, up to a maximum of 18 credits, requires payment of additional fees for each extra credit. During summer session, graduate students are limited to a maximum of 16 credits. Minimum registration is 9 credits per term, with a minimum of 3 graduate credits a term.

Incompletes
Graduate students must convert an incomplete (I) received for a graduate course to a passing grade within one calendar year of the assignment of the incomplete. Students may request more time for the removal of the incomplete by submitting a petition for approval by the dean of the Graduate School. The petition must be signed by the instructor and state the course requirements that were not initially completed. Prerequisites for allowance of additional time include, but are not limited to, enrollment in a current term, adherence to the seven-year time allocation, and a minimal remaining quantity of work. This policy does not apply to incompletes assigned to Thesis (503), Research (601), Dissertation (603), and Terminal Project (609). Thesis and dissertation credits are automatically converted when the thesis or dissertation is completed and accepted by the Graduate School. Research and terminal project credits are converted after the instructor submits a supplementary grade report to the Office of the Registrar. Incompletes that remain on the academic record after the degree is completed may not be removed.

Continuous Enrollment
Unless leave status has been approved, a student in an advanced degree or graduate certificate program must remain in continuous enrollment at the university, taking at least 3 graduate credits each term, until all the program’s requirements have been completed. Registration for summer session is not required unless the student is using university facilities or faculty or staff services. Failure to maintain continuous enrollment effectively withdraws the student from graduate status. See Permission to Reregister.
Additional Requirements By Year

ALL YEARS

• Graduate Reviews  November/ February
• Held bi-annually, graduate reviews provide a non-evaluative space for the discussion of work through small group meetings with the art faculty, invited guests from College of Design and the regional art community. Students are required to participate in one review each year.
• Attend Visiting Artist lectures, participate in studio visits with Visiting Artists
• Attend all MFA related events

FIRST YEAR

• First Year Exhibition (April)
• First Year MFA Review (May)
  All First year MFA students set up finished work in their studios or other appropriate locations on the designated date and present the work to faculty. See page 21 for full description
• Evidence of continued independent studio commitment and research

SECOND YEAR

• Terminal Creative Project Proposal /Thesis (See section on thesis for full description)

• Progress Meeting with Committee: minimum one each term or as needed
• Terminal Project Credits: split among committee members throughout the year
• Meet regularly with individual committee members throughout the year
• Follow calendar guidelines for project deadlines
Advising for 1st and 2nd Year Grads

Each first and second year MFA student will have one full time faculty member who is the main contact person for them throughout the year. This advisor is a consistent voice that guides them in their first years of residence and is responsible for tracking the student’s progress through the program.

The student should contact the faculty advisor at the beginning of each term to set up meetings. The meetings are centered around studio visits to discuss work as well as upcoming deadlines, questions about process, and expectations in anticipation of significant moments of evaluation. Focusing on studio practice at the core of advising conversations will allow for close and continuous mentorship. The faculty advisor also functions as a teaching mentor as needed.

General topics:

- Studio work
- New student orientation
- Reclassification
- Terminal project proposal
- Terminal project report and exhibition.

Additional Oversight:

- Preparedness for upcoming program requirements such as coursework, supervised teaching credits, grad review, etc.
- Teaching
- Trajectory of research and creative practice
- Difficulties/obstacles to progress
- Special Opportunities

Advising for 3rd Year Grads

The thesis committee chair, selected by the student, is the main advisor for the third year of study. Each student will work with their thesis committee to complete their thesis paper and exhibition. Deadlines are sent out at the beginning of Fall term by the DGS.

MFA Program
Required Course Descriptions

ART 614 Graduate Studio (every term, for first and second year students)
Grading: Pass/Fail
In the first two years of residence, the MFA candidate is assigned 2 mentors each term, in addition to their faculty advisor. Mentors may be from the area of concentration at some point through the year, but not every term. The pairing of the student with the mentor is based on the student’s work and the area of interest and expertise of the faculty member. All mentors are rotated each term to build a strong and diverse set of opinions and ideas surrounding the work and to create wide contact and familiarity with the faculty.
Mentors meet individually with student twice per term for in-depth conversations surrounding the direction and progress of work. The third meeting of the term is a group meeting with both mentors and the student. Additional individual meetings may be requested at the discretion of faculty. Weeks 2, 5, 9 are suggested for the meetings.
The emphasis of this course is on building a strong individual practice in the first two years of residence. Mentors set out the expectations and oversee grading. A passing grade is defined as meeting the required amount of studio visits, progression in making, conceptual growth, openness to experimentation, and completion of the annotated bibliography and artist’s statement.

Expectations

Rigorous studio practice and exploration of research methodologies
Completion of mentor meetings
Bibliographies and statements - Students* must send artist’s statements and bibliographies to their mentors at the beginning and end of each term.

Scheduling and Attending Meetings: Students are expected to take the initiative to schedule meetings with mentors, making every effort to expedite the scheduling process. Permission to reschedule a missed meeting is at the discretion of the instructor. Difficulties with scheduling or attending meetings will impact the student’s grade, and can be cause for failure.

Additional course details are included Grad Studio syllabus under “Course Requirements.”

*For fall term, incoming students only need to supply artist’s statements at the beginning of the term. These can be the statements they applied with. At the end of each term, students will submit new or revised statements and their annotated bibliography.
ART 610 Issues and Practices (Fall term only)

The course content is thematic and based on the research of faculty teaching the course.
Objectives:
Deep engagement with relevant ideas in the field
Gain breadth of knowledge related to ideas outside of the student’s area of focus
Develop writing and research skills
Develop and communicate ideas verbally

Possible Content:
weekly readings and discussions concerning contemporary practices as related to the theme of the course.
Writing possibilities: annotated bibliography, artist statements / personal statements about their work - studio visits: view of in-progress work and ideas
Presentation of research related to the students work

ART 612 MFA Critique Colloquium (Winter and Spring terms)

An interdisciplinary site for critical dialogue across three years of graduate study.
Led by a faculty member, each student presents in-progress and finished work for discussion with their peer group. Colloquium faculty is rotated frequently to give students a diverse approach towards criticism and analysis.
ART 609 Terminal Creative Project
Led by thesis committee in completion of degree requirements. The committee oversees the studio production, research and writing of the MFA thesis.

Supervised College Teaching
ART 602 / Supervised College Teaching

(see page 29 for full description)
Supervised College Teaching allows for mentorship in teaching methods and procedures through observation of faculty classes. All graduate students applying for GE positions in studio classes are required to complete Supervised College Teaching Credits with faculty.
ART 507 Dismantling Cartesianism
This course traverses an immense span of time as it exposes major cultural shifts that have so heavily influenced art and altered our perception of the world and our place within it. Following a study of enlightenment thought and it’s flourishing in Modernity, concentration is given to movements of Postmodernism and Post-Structuralism; it’s critique of Modernity, and the new questions it poses for art and culture. In a study of language and culture theory through discourses of art, psychology, sociology, and philosophy, the writings of French thinkers including ; Derrida, Foucault, Lacan, Baudrillard, Barthes, Cixous, Irigaray, Kristeva, Deleuze & Guattari, Bouriaud and others are explored. Along with this, the loss of ‘wildness’ and the rise of science and technology as transcendent agencies, cyborgs, and debates regarding post-human positions are discussed. This class involves a fair amount of reading and relies heavily on discussion and student presentations to give meaning and understanding to the texts we explore.

ART 608 Writing for Artists
Graduate course that familiarizes students with different aspects of writing as related to the field: preparation for thesis, grants and artist/project statements.

Other
In addition to graduate level offerings, we recommend the following courses for academic enrichment.

The Artist’s Experience [Winter + Spring term]
An undergraduate course geared towards the research and studio practice of our faculty. This class is a great opportunity to identify mentors with whom you wish to work with by dropping in to the scheduled lectures. Faculty presentations alternate yearly.

International Travel Opportunities

Other course descriptions are available depending on the term being offered.
Check advising email for current course offerings and description.
Visiting Artists

Artists representing some of the most innovative and influential work being done today lecture on their work and ideas at the University of Oregon. These public lectures provide a unique opportunity to hear directly from artists about their process and influences. The Department brings in about a dozen artists and critics each year from across the nation to lecture and meet with students in small groups or individual studio visits. The two annual endowed lectures, the George & Matilde Fowler lecture and the Davis Family Lecture, bring in particularly high profile artists and critics who challenge our assumptions about art and have broad relevance across media. Most visiting artist lectures are scheduled on Thursday evenings and special events with the grads typically occur the following Friday.

ART 614 GRADUATE STUDIO SYLLABUS

4 Credits
Grading: P/N
Offered: Fall/ Winter/ Spring
Instructor: Full faculty rotation

Graduate Requirement: 24 credits taken F/W/S in the first two years of residency.

Course Description: Graduate Studio, a course with rotating faculty mentors, is designed for students to engage in a rigorous studio practice through independent production, experimentation, and research.

Objectives:

Graduate Studio encompasses both disciplinary depth and interdisciplinary dialogue. The emphasis of the course is on individual creative production in the first two years of residence. Alongside building a strong studio practice for the student, the course allows faculty to create an individualized learning environment that offers criticism, ideation and research directives.

The objectives for the course are:

1) to instill the ethics of a strong and independent studio practice
2) to create a forum for our diverse faculty to engage students in the breadth of dialogue exemplified in the current state of contemporary art and art education; and 3) to support students in building strong research, writing, and speaking skills.

In the first two years of residence, the MFA candidate is assigned 2 mentors each term. Mentors may be from the area of concentration at some point through the year, but not every term. The pairing of the student with the mentor is based on the student’s work and the area of interest and expertise of the faculty member. All mentors are rotated each term to build a strong and diverse set of opinions surrounding the work and to create wide contact and familiarity with the faculty.

Mentors individually meet with student twice per term for in-depth conversations surrounding the direction and progress of work. The third meeting of the term is a group meeting with both mentors and the student. Additional individual meetings may be requested at the discretion of faculty. Weeks 2, 5, 9 are suggested for the meetings.
Course Requirements and Procedures:

- Rigorous studio practice totaling a minimum of 16 hours per week that includes independent creative work and research in preparation for Graduate Reclassification in the spring of the first year and Terminal Project Proposal in the Spring of the second year.
- Completion of mentor meetings
- Development of an artist statement each term to addresses the production and conceptual parameters of current studio work. A good artist statement supplements the visual information in your portfolio and will be used for exhibitions, grant writing and professional endeavors in the field.
- Development of research as it pertains to individual directions in the work.
- Development of an annotated bibliography that documents your research, with guidance from the primary mentor. An annotated bibliography is a list of varied sources that may include books, articles, films, websites, audio, and catalogue reviews that inform your creative practice, along with a paragraph that discusses the content of the source, your insights and opinions, and the relevance it holds to your inquiry. There should be an addition of 5-7 sources in your bibliography each term. (see next page for more details)
- The student is responsible for setting up and completing all mentor meetings during the assigned weeks. Please contact your mentors during the first week of the each term. Permission to reschedule a missed meeting is at the discretion of the instructor. Difficulties with scheduling or attending meetings will impact the student’s grade, and can be cause for failure.
- Students must supply current artist’s statements and bibliographies to their mentors at the beginning and end of each term. (Exception: for fall term, incoming students only need to supply artist’s statements at the beginning of the term. These can be the statements they applied with. They will submit new or revised statements at the end of the term, as well as the beginning of an annotated bibliography.)

Evaluation:

Grading: P/N P= B- or higher

Mentors set out the expectations and oversees grading. A passing grade is defined as meeting the required amount of studio visits, progression in making, conceptual growth, and openness to experimentation.

To receive a passing grade in this course, students must complete:
- 6 mentor meetings
- Develop new work that will be critiqued at the end of the term by the primary mentor
- Develop a current artist statement
- Conduct research and create a minimum of 5-7 entries in their annotated bibliography document
- Time commitment of at least 16 hours per week in the studio
Annotated Bibliography Description
MLA/Chicago Style

The annotated bibliography is a list of varied sources including books, articles, films, websites, audio, and catalogue reviews that inform your creative practice. The citation is followed by a succinct descriptive paragraph that discusses the content of the source, your insights and opinions, and the relevance it holds to your inquiry. A good bibliography should demonstrate your ongoing engagement with your field of inquiry and creative work. Below is an example of an annotated bibliography.

Gablik examines the practice of art making and the changing relationship between art and culture. She believes that art can no longer remain separate and above the concerns of everyday, that there is a new emphasis on community and the environment rather than on individual achievement. She states that this ecological perspective does not replace the aesthetic but offers a deeper meaning for art, beyond the gallery system, that addresses issues of context or social responsibility. While the main focus of this book is art and the role of artists, it also provides a philosophical perspective on the current emotional, intellectual, spiritual and physical challenges that are facing our culture and world today.Gablik proposes that change is possible, that individuals can make a collective difference, and that awareness and action are partners in change.

Statement of Diversity
The School of Architecture and Allied Arts is a community that values inclusion. We are dedicated to an environment that is inclusive and fosters awareness, understanding, and respect for diversity. If you feel excluded or threatened, please contact your instructor and/or department head. The University Bias Response Team is also a resource that can assist you. First year REVIEW

Procedure And Expectations | May
consult yearly calendar for exact date

A successful review signifies that the student has completed their coursework, as well as other requirements as defined by their graduate program, and is ready to move forward to the thesis development phase.

All review candidates (first year MFAs) set up finished work in their studios or other appropriate locations. Work in progress may also be considered in addition to finished pieces. Students should provide a 1-page statement in support of their creative practice and attach the bibliography compiled through the first year of study. The statement should trace the progression of the candidate’s practice since entering the program and outline the future trajectory of their creative work and research.

Faculty Review Committee
A faculty review committee consisting of one primary advisor who is familiar with the progression of the work, and no fewer than two faculty members total, will meet with the student to review the work, statement and research. Following the review, the faculty will meet without the student to assess progress and promise of continued advancement. A recommendation for or against reclassification will be made and this recommendation will be communicated to the candidate at the end of the session. The candidate will receive a copy of the committee’s written assessment (Reclassification Form) within one week of review and the original form will be placed in the student’s file.

Failure To Complete Review
Should the student not pass review, another meeting will take place during the week prior to Fall term. Students who are not reclassified after two attempts, will not advance to Graduate Master’s status.

Criteria
The primary criterion for reclassification is the production of an appropriate quality and quantity of artistic work for graduate level study. The work should evidence a strong work ethic, a commitment to intellectual inquiry, rigorous experimentation with ideas and forms, and promise of continued advancement. These endeavors should be appropriate to each student’s intentions and sensibilities.

Review Schedule
3:00-3:40 Faculty walk through, all studios (students not present) 3:40-4:10 Committee review with student 4:10-4:25 Committee discussion without student 4:25-4:40 Committee discussion with student to communicate decision
Assembling a Committee

During the spring term of the second year, MFA candidates will assemble their Terminal Project Committee to consist of three tenure-related Art Faculty. In consultation with the chair of the committee, a fourth space may be reserved for a tenure-related faculty member outside of the art department. The procedure to gather the committee is as follows:

1. Select and invite chair of committee.
2. Once your committee chair has accepted your request, you will work with your chair to identify 2 other committee members and 2 alternate committee members. (NOTE: Do not invite the other committee members, only the chair. The other members will be confirmed by the department)
3. Email a list including the name of your confirmed committee chair, your two suggestions for additional committee members, and your two alternates to the DGS by Friday, week 7 of winter term.
4. DGS/office staff will confirm your committee members once the list has been finalized. The thesis committee examines the project proposal, works with the student through the terminal credits, and contributes the evaluative voice on the MFA candidate’s visual, oral and written creative project.

Proposal

The Terminal Project Proposal meeting takes place during week 7/8 of the spring term in the second year of graduate study. Each candidate will schedule a meeting with the committee and is required to send the written proposal, not to exceed 800 words, to the full committee one week prior to the meeting. This proposal should discuss the framework of research and practice that the student will undertake and speculate upon the formation of the visual work. In this meeting, the student will present the terminal project proposal with examples of creative work. The written proposal should consider the following:

- Explain the basic ideas and questions that will be undertaken
- Possible forms the work can take
- Contextualize the inquiry within the scope of contemporary production
- Describe the methodologies that will be used to actualize the work

If the proposal does not meet the expectation of the faculty, it is the candidate’s responsibility to schedule a second meeting at the discretion of the committee, but no later than the second week of fall term for reevaluation. The candidate is expected to pass the proposal before week 10 of fall term. Failure to pass the proposal may result in delayed graduation.
Terminal Project: 3rd Year Guidelines

As part of the University of Oregon MFA Program, each candidate is required to enroll in Terminal Creative Project Credits in the third year of residence. These credits are taken each term, with every member of the committee, in completion of the research, writing and creative work culminating in the MFA Degree. To signify the highest level of professional competency in the visual arts, the executed body of work should represent a high level of achievement through active engagement in the following areas:

- Conceptual development
- Rigorous studio practice
- Interpretation and communication of ideas into a visual language
- Facility with chosen materials and media
- Critical engagement within the field of art and beyond

Terminal Project Report

Description
The terminal project paper is a written articulation of the creative work undertaken while in residence at the University of Oregon and should evidence a direct relationship with the studio practice. The report is also expected to demonstrate the candidate’s familiarity with contemporary art practice and his or her competence in providing original and critical reflections on current practice.

Written alongside the development of a body of work, this document prepares the student for professional situations such as artist lectures, academic presentations, grant and exhibition proposals and many related goals. The terminal paper documents the critical approach to the work and relays the historical and contemporary contexts to the reader. The particular methodologies undertaken should acknowledge, in depth, an understanding of the field and address several of the following:

• Aesthetic/Non-aesthetic parameters in the work
• Evolution of work during the program where relevant to the terminal project inquiry
• Relationship between content/medium/process
• Art historical precedents and/or social, historical and cultural context
• Location of inquiry in a contemporary art dialogue
• Audience

It is the candidate’s responsibility to ensure that the terminal paper is written in accordance with the correct use of the English language as it pertains to grammar, punctuation and spelling. Each draft needs to be cohesive and proofread prior to submission to committee members. The full extent of the research developed in conjunction with the creative work should be evident in the written report including proper citations and a comprehensive bibliography.

Students are required to follow all style, copyright clearance, and template guidelines for the published report.
Terminal Project Report, Cont.

The committee Chair is the first reader of the preliminary draft, and should receive a copy of the first draft at least three weeks before the winter term committee meeting. After the first draft is approved by the Chair, it should be sent to the rest of the committee at least one week before the winter term progress meeting.

Supervised College Teaching

ART 602 / Supervised College Teaching
2 credits P/NP

All graduate students applying for GE positions in studio classes are required to complete Supervised College Teaching Credits (SCT) with full time faculty in their area of technical expertise. Supervised College Teaching allows for mentorship in teaching methods and procedures through observation of faculty classes. Classroom observation is designed to help graduate students implement methods for teaching visual arts through presenting lectures and assignments, preparing and delivering demonstrations, and critiquing and grading student work. Graduate students are expected to observe each class and prepare materials for two class sessions covering one technical demonstration and one topical image presentation.

NOTE: Students only need to take SCT once, they do not need to repeat SCT for differing course assignments, or for .30 GTF appointments. For those students graduating in 2014, the requirement is waived.

Please Discuss Your SCT Plan With Your Advisor

Students must obtain their SCT supervisor’s signature on the SCT form, available at http://art.uoregon.edu/academics/grad/forms, and submit it to the art office along with their GTF applications.

Procedures and Tips

You will be required to follow the department procedures for meeting with your class and reporting the grades and credits. The departmental staff can assist you with most questions that you may have (material issue tickets, model lists, meaning of the marks “Y”, “W”, “X”, and “I” on grade rosters, etc.).

IMPORTANT NOTE: The week before finals week is “review week” throughout the college. This usually means that group and individual reviews take place during this week (week 10), NOT during finals week.

Classroom Door Codes for Your Students
The office emails new codes each term for classrooms/buildings.

Class Lists and Grade Rosters
Class lists and Grade Rosters will only be available from DuckWeb. You will need your UO ID number and PAC number.

Copy Codes – Class Handouts
To request a copier code for access to the machine in the output room (LA 280) please go to link https://service.uoregon.edu/TDClient/Requests/ServiceDet?ID=30934. Scroll to the bottom of the page and click “Request Help” and then log in with Duck ID to request access. – 1-10 copies. For class handouts, give your copy to Faculty and Student Services (FSS) who will send it to campus copy. This is usually a one-day turn around. (It can be faster if you walk it through.) The index code is AFAMAT and the activity code changes for each curricular area – see Heidi Howes for your activity code.

Grades
Please spend a little time during the first class session explaining pass/no-pass and graded options, lockers, etc. Ask office staff or your supervisor if you have any questions about these. All grades are due Tuesday noon the week after the term is over.

Models
If you use models, please consider the use of heaters, keeping doors closed to avoid drafts, and if needed, a changing screen should be located in the studio.

Facilities
If you notice any problems with the physical elements of your studio/classroom, please report these to your supervisor.

Advising
Students may ask you for advising help from time to time. If the advising concerns the course they are taking with you, you should meet with them to discuss their concerns. For all other matters please direct them to set up an appointment with our official Undergraduate Student Advisor who can help them with questions about departmental requirements, progress towards graduation, etc.. Appointments are set up through the Art office (contact Risa Saavedra).

Departmental Grading Policy

Grade Rationale
Criteria considered:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Quality and amount of work</th>
<th>Engagement with course expectations and concepts</th>
<th>Participation</th>
<th>Progress and self-challenge</th>
<th>Typical Grade Distributions</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

A+ = Truly exceptional work, unusually sophisticated level of engagement with course concepts, insightful participation in class discussions, extraordinary growth. Highest distinction, typically very few if any students receive this grade.

A = Distinctive work, complete success in synthesis of thinking and making, thoughtful and perceptive contributions to discussions, significant personal progress. Typically no more than a quarter of the students in a class receive this grade, more in upper-division classes.

B = Successful and well-executed work, competency with all course materials, concepts, and objectives, frequent and thoughtful participation, evidence of progress. Typically this is the most common grade.

C = Competent work with most assignments and class work completed, satisfactory grasp of material, participates in discussions most times, made some growth. Typically this grade indicates weak performance in at least one area of expectation.

D = Subpar work with significant lack of completion and/or low attendance, course concepts poorly understood, minimal participation, minimal to no growth. Typically this grade indicates significant problems in more than one area of performance.

F = Problematic on all fronts, indicating either no real grasp of the material, significant lack of effort and/or growth, or unacceptably negative forms of engagement with the course materials and the classroom community. Typically very few students receive this grade.

NOTE: In upper-division courses, expectations include attention to the critical discourse surrounding the work or issue at hand, with the expectation that the work be clearly placed in a critical dialogue with outside sources.

Letters of recommendation are a critical element in your application for graduate school (BFAs) or teaching positions (MFAs). Your goal is to not only get a recommendation, but to get a GOOD one. Asking for a last-minute recommendation in the wrong way can result in a “no” or a less-than-stellar letter. Here are a few tips for making sure you get the strongest letter possible.

Recognize that writing letters of recommendation is time consuming and requests often come in bunches, or at inopportune moments such as at the end of the term and during breaks. Faculty may be swamped with meetings and other work at the end of the term, traveling, or preparing work for their own deadlines during these times. You will get a better letter if it is not rushed. Faculty preferences around letter writing vary. Always ask whether the faculty member is willing to write you a letter, and what their timeframe and preferred procedure for receiving supporting information and forms is.

Steps:
• Do not wait until the last minute! You should give at least three weeks notice for a letter. Prepare for this request and get all your information ready and organized, so they understand the context of the recommendation. If it’s been awhile since you have seen them, it’s helpful to provide some information to jog their memory and to update them on what you’ve been up to.
• Do not ever list someone as a reference without first asking them!
• Many letters are now submitted electronically so you can track the status of your applications directly online. In cases where you cannot, you should ask your recommender how it is best to keep in touch about the status of your letter. Most professors will appreciate a friendly email reminder.

What to Include in your Request:
Once a faculty member has agreed to write you a letter, follow up with a written request that includes the following information:
1. To whom the information is to be released (list of schools or positions, including the specific program and degree or position you are applying for and addresses)
2. The purpose for which the information is to be released (grad school, jobs, internships, scholarship)

Include the following details:
• Deadlines
• Whether submission is electronic or via hardcopy. If electronic - include email address or weblink / If hard copy include the forms and a stamped and addressed envelope
• Short blurb on the programs or job to which you are applying
• A copy of your artist’s statement (this will help your recommender write a much stronger letter of support since they can tailor their language to reflect your interests)
• Short list of relevant information useful to highlight in the letter – this includes relevant classes you’ve taken, teaching, awards, exhibitions, etc. that would be helpful

Other Issues to Consider:
• Letters of recommendation are confidential, so you shouldn’t ask to see a copy.
• Likewise, most letters of recommendation forms give you the option of waiving your right to see your letters. If you do not waive your right you will be able to obtain copies of your letters. This means your recommender might not be as candid in your evaluation, and thus, it won’t be considered as strong of a letter on the receiving end. Many professors will not write a non-confidential letter because they feel that this practice erodes the effectiveness of letters in the future.
