WASHINGTON — The final game in the three-game set between the Wizards and Nets was a battle of titans, with both teams coming into the game with championship aspirations.

The Wizards, led by the dynamic duo of Bradley Beal and John Wall, entered the game with a 3-1 record, while the Nets, featuring the All-Star tandem of Kevin Durant and James Harden, had a 2-2 mark. Despite the high stakes, the game lived up to expectations, as it was a back-and-forth battle that came down to the final seconds.

Beal and Wall combined for 61 points, with Beal scoring 36 and Wall adding 25, but the Nets ultimately prevailed, winning 118-112 in overtime. Durant scored 38 points, including the game-winner, while Harden added 37.

The victory moved the Wizards to 3-2 on the season, while the Nets improved to 4-2. Both teams will look to build on their success as they continue their respective campaigns.
