

Patrick T. Crowe '86
National Director
BNY Mellon Wealth Management

Patrick Crowe is the National Director of Investment Solutions for BNY Mellon Wealth Management. He is responsible for the development and management of our strategic solution architecture and chairs the Wealth Management Solution Strategy Committee.

Pat's responsibilities with the Bank of New York and subsequently with the combined BNY Mellon organization have included the director of investment research, head of private asset management and positions on a variety of senior level investment committees. In his most recent role, Pat has been the managing director for Wealth Management's Tri-State Region.

Pat received a bachelor's degree from Providence College and a master of business administration from Seton Hall University. He is a CFA charter holder and a member of the CFA institute and the New York Society of Security Analysts. Pat is board member of Center for Food Action NJ. He is also on the President's Council of Valley Hospital.