Tips to Interact with Students Online

- Hold office hours remotely. Use Blackboard or email to communicate with student when you will be available to meet virtually (e.g. Zoom, Skype, etc.) or by phone.

- Make sure to communicate regularly with your students. You can communicate using the announcements and/or email tools within your Blackboard course site.

- Let students know how quickly they should receive a response from you.

- Give detailed feedback. Receiving timely and detailed feedback will help students to know how well they’re doing in class and what they need to improve.

- Keep students engaged. Use the discussion boards; live video meetings (e.g. Zoom, Skype, etc.) and use MS Teams/ Zoom break out rooms to do group work in real-time.
