

Sky Stories

People all over the world tell stories about things around them. Now, it's your turn!

Look outside and see what animals you can find. Dogs, spiders, squirrels, robins, ants, or any animal you see can inspire you!

Look closely at the animal to fill out the story maker page. Use pictures or videos on the Internet of a similar animal if your creature runs away before you get a good look!

1

Draw a picture of your animal. Be sure to include details. This helps give it personality.

2

Write 4 words or phrases to describe characteristics of the animal you chose (soft/hard, big/small, fast/slow, color, etc.). This helps readers recognize the animal.

My Story Page

Remember from the storyteller's Raven video, all stories have:

- A main character
- A setting
- Beginning, middle, and end events

Look at your drawing and description of your animal. Imagine why the sky is blue or has clouds or contains wind. Tell a story about an how your animal might have been involved. The story should explain why the sky looks the way it does, or is the way it is. Include the main character (your animal); your descriptive words, a setting; and beginning, middle, and end events.
